Chicago, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Freezing northwest winds and subzero temperatures continued to grip the middle west today.

While thermometers were sinking to below zero marks, the United States weather bureau in its early forecast promised no relief from the intense cold until tomorrow.

The weather will remain clear and cold today, the forecast said, and an unsettled condition which will probably cause the mercury to begin a slow rise, will supplant the cold tomorrow.

Zero and subzero temperatures have been recorded in all the states of this section.

Twenty persons have met their deaths as a result of the cold. In the northwest the cold is the severest of the winter with the thermometer playing around a 20 degree below zero mark. International Falls, Minn., reported a low of 38 below.

Railroad traffic throughout the northwest and in Wisconsin and Minnesota has been paralyzed. Trains arriving here from that section are one to seven hours late.

Suffering among the poor in Chicago is intense. So far more than 250 families have been given relief and police stations and charitable agency buildings are filled with unfortunates.

As an indication of how the cold has forced citizens to remain indoors, Chicago's broadcasting stations today reported that requests from listeners had almost tripled last night.

According to weather bureau predictions, the thermometer will go no higher today than 13 or 14 degrees. This "warm interval" will last for only a short time about noon.

The unsettled condition predicted for tomorrow is expected to cause the thermometer to rise to a stationary level somewhere around 20 degrees and a steady moderation is scheduled to follow.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—Relief was expected today from the cold wave which swept over the state on Monday night and yesterday and took a toll of two lives.

Joseph Morawitz, 80, died at emergency hospital here after he was found in a critical condition in a heatless room suffering from exposure. John Sizoo was found frozen to death in a box car at Neenah where he had sought shelter from the biting winds.

A crew of a hundred men working in short shifts continued removing loaded freight cars from the Pere Marquette car ferry No. 18, which went aground in a fog off Fox Point near here.

St. Paul, Dec. 15.—Although subzero temperatures persisted, some relief came to the northwest today from the Arctic weather that has disrupted transportation, closed up schools and created a more or less general tie-up. Temperatures were reported rising in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa. Continued moderation was forecast for Thursday.

St. Paul-Minneapolis which shivered in a temperature of 18 below at 9:30 A. M. Tuesday, reported the mercury standing at 15 below at 9 A. M. today. Biting northwest winds died down and added to the relief.

The low temperature in the Twin Cities during the night was 17 below, one degree warmer than the record low for the season. Other Minnesota points reported from 30 below to 15 below.

Another death was added to the toll of the cold wave in the Twin Cities late Tuesday when F. W.

Justice Hoehling read a long charge to the jury, advising it on points of law. Then he turned over to the 12 men the task of deciding whether E. L. Doheny, old millionaire, and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, were guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government in the negotiations of Elk Hills, Cal., naval oil reserve leases and the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil tank contracts.

Court room observers said in view of the quantity of evidence to be discussed a speedy verdict was unlikely.

Nichols, 35, a railroad employee, was struck and killed by a west bound Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train. Warmly wrapped, he is believed to have failed to hear the train's signals.

Reports of entire groups of persons being lost in the snow were received from various parts of the northwest. Five players of the New Leipzig, N. D., school and three teachers left Glen Ullin after winning a basketball game there and were found near exhaustion attempting to walk home after their automobile had stalled.

A few bus lines that had discontinued service resumed their scheduled Tuesday and more were to brave drifted roads today. State and county highway maintenance crews joined today to clear the roads for traffic. Over all the northwest physicians were kept busy treating frost bitten fingers and toes. In the larger cities great suffering among the poor was being combated by relief agencies.

DAY-SOMERSET DIVORCE TRIAL IS DELAYED

THE DEPOSITIONS SOUGHT FROM LONDON FAILED TO ARRIVE

HEARING IS TENTATIVELY RESCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 15

Edith Day, well known London and New York stage success, is known by a number of Brainerd people who became acquainted with her during her vacation at her summer cottage at Gull Lake for three months during the summer of 1925. The Day cottage is located near the Cinesam club.

By WILLIAM B. HALLBERG (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Minneapolis, Dec. 15.—The Edith Day-Pat Somerset divorce trial was delayed here today. Depositions sought from London failed to arrive and the hearing was tentatively rescheduled for January 15. Neither principal was in court.

Miss Day is in London, continuing the stage career that started seven years ago when she rose to stardom in "Irene," the musical comedy that James Montgomery wrote around her personality.

Montgomery wrote "Irene" at the behest of Carle Carleton, then an unknown moving picture director, who won recognition in making a Broadway favorite of Miss Day. After the comedy became a success, Miss Day and Carleton were married.

Their romance came to grief in London. Pat Somerset, leading man of the Island production, was divorced by Margaret Bannerman, a Canadian actress, who charged her husband and Miss Day had lived together and that a child had been born to them. Carleton also won a decree and Miss Day and Somerset were married.

Miss Day returned to her home, Minneapolis, to file a divorce action in November, 1924, charging that soon after their marriage, Somerset deserted her. He is not contesting the decree.

While Carleton's suit was pending, Somerset, who had followed Miss Day to the United States, was threatened with deportation, but Carleton had the proceedings dismissed.

Miss Day's father, Oscar Day, of Minneapolis, an advertising man, has the care of her five-year-old son.

Day told the United Press that a commission from the Hennepin county court for the taking of depositions from Miss Day and other witnesses in London had gone astray, causing the delay in the hearing.

A second commission is on its way and the necessary documents are expected to arrive next month. Miss Day will remain in London, however.

STARK REALISM ON STAGE WILL BE ATTEMPTED

Madison, Wis., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Stark realism on the stage will be attempted in a production of "Hashes" by the Wisconsin players, a university group, here tomorrow night if the medical school cooperates by loaning them two cadavers.

AROUSED OVER DIVERSION OF LAKE WATER

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Senator Casgrain demanded in a speech before the senate that the Canadian government immediately act to obtain redress from the United States for damage done Canada by diversion of Great Lakes water through the Chicago drainage canal. Vienna, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Several persons were wounded today when police with drawn sabers charged a riotous crowd of unemployed persons who had gathered outside parliament house demanding a government Christmas gift of 3,500,000 Austrian shillings to be distributed among workless persons.

Some of the demonstrators were arrested.

CANADIAN POLICE JOIN IN SEARCH FOR ERDMAN OLSON

18-YEAR-OLD COLLEGE BOY IS SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF HIS SWEETHEART

BELIEVE ALLEGED SLAYER MAY SEEK TO REACH RELATIVES IN SASKATOON

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Canadian Northwest Mounted Police today joined in the search for Erdman Olson, 18-year-old college boy, wanted for the murder of his 22-year-old sweetheart, Clara Olson, who was brutally beaten to death and tossed in a shallow grave near here.

Believing that the alleged slayer may be attempting to reach relatives in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, local authorities have warned the Saskatoon police to watch for him.

Acting on another theory that the youth may be working as a lumberjack in the north woods, police here have forwarded a description of him to posts of the Mounted Police.

The deluge of reports of the capture of Erdman, which flooded in from all sections of this country immediately after the discovery of Clara's body a few days ago and which availed nothing, has ceased and the search has settled down to a routine.

Possibility that the slayer may have obtained the round nose shovel with which Clara's grave is believed to have been dug from a road grader which was working in the vicinity of the home of the youth on September 9, the day before Clara disappeared, developed today.

Andrew Munson, a road patrolman, told authorities that he missed a shovel that day.

"I didn't think anything of it," he said. "Thought it just fell off the grader and was lost."

Doctors testified at the inquest that the girl died from blows which were probably administered with an implement of this kind.

CORN GROWERS SEEK TO OUST SECRETARY JARDINE

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Ousting of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in favor of a man "whose practical training qualifies him for the position" is asked in a resolution promulgated by the National Corn Growers' association in annual convention here.

The resolution will be forwarded today to the Iowa delegation in congress with the request that immediate action be taken.

The resolution further pledges the support of the association to the farm legislative committee in congress; extended sympathy to the cotton and tobacco growers and invited them to cooperate in gaining suitable farm relief legislation.

New York, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Way Walker, 40, was held by police charged with "fishing" in a church poor box with a wad of chewing gum on a stick.

SEEK TO EVADE IMMIGRATION LAWS OF U. S.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT OPERATIVES ESTIMATE NUMBER AT 3,000

OTHERS SAY THERE ARE 6,000 OR MORE AWAITING CHANCE TO SLIP OVER

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Several thousands of aliens were reported today along the boundary between the United States and Canada watching for the opportunity to evade the United States immigration laws by slipping across the frontier during the extraordinary Christmas tourist movement.

Canadian government operatives estimate that 3,000 such aliens were waiting for their chance. Other persons in touch with the situation estimated that 6,000 and perhaps more aliens were ready to slip over in spite of the American "stay out" signs.

The last boat from Europe to dock in Montreal unloaded a large number of aliens who freely admitted that they were bound for the United States but that they would not be able to enter the country legally. During the autumn many aliens came to Canada and went directly to cities where there were considerable colonies of their fellows to receive a brief training preliminary to entry into the United States.

Montreal is the assembling point for the Canadian alien smuggling traffic and there were believed to be approximately 1,000 aliens in Montreal today waiting for vigilance across the border to relax.

Stories of prospective tax rebates in the United States and other indications of good living, well paid work and plenty, keep the ranks of the would-be Americans filled although some of the aliens slip away and are seen no more in Canada.

The thin, hopeful line extends from Montreal to the Niagara river, to Windsor, Ont., which is across from Detroit and on to the west, where long miles of prairie or woodland are marked at spots by poles which explain that on this side is Canada and on the other the United States.

At small towns along the St. Claire river and at Hamilton, Toronto and Niagara Falls the waiting game is being played with American prosperity the goal of the players.

It is notable that large numbers of aliens who recently entered Canada have headed immediately for western Canadian provinces. This was said to have resulted from the authorities' increased efforts to prevent alien smuggling from Ontario and Quebec into the United States.

CHILD SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS

Red Wing, Minn., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Lorraine, 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Haller, was in a hospital here today suffering from serious burns about the head and hands, following her narrow escape from death in a burning home Tuesday night.

The blaze which was caused by the explosion of a kitchen oil stove spread so rapidly that the child's clothing caught fire as she was attempting to escape.

Mrs. Haller, after rescuing two smaller children, picked up the blazing girl and threw her into a snowbank. The child is expected to recover. The home was destroyed.

FORMER MILK CO. HEAD DIES

St. Paul, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Funeral services will be held Thursday for A. H. Heller, Sr., 69, former president of the Minnesota Milk Company, who died Monday night after an illness of 10 days. He had been a Twin Cities resident for 25 years.

CONDITION OF EMPEROR OF JAPAN SLIGHTLY BETTER

Tokio, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The condition of Emperor Yoshihito of Japan, critically ill of pneumonia, was reported slightly improved today. He was taking food through a tube. His temperature was 36.4 centigrade, pulse 98.

American Ambassador Charles MacVeagh called at the imperial palace at Hayama today and inquired about the emperor's condition.

PRETTY WAITER GIRL KILLED HER ADMIRER

RESENTED TACTICS OF MAN WHO FOLLOWED AND MOLESTED HER

GETS A REVOLVER AND SHOOT DOWN THE MAN AT POOL ROOM

Stanley, N. D., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Believing their daughter, did a service to "all womankind," the parents of Miss Alice Holtz, 20, pretty, big eyed waitress, rallied today to her defense. She was being brought here from Sanish where she shot and killed William Nafus, 23, an admirer.

A charge of first degree murder was to be lodged against Miss Holtz on her arrival here as the result of the verdict of a coroner's jury at Sanish, recommending she be held. "I'm sorry," the girl said.

Discussing the case with newspaper men, the father today revealed the motive for the shooting, which had puzzled authorities.

"Alice is a good girl," he said at his home here. "She went to Sanish to work in a restaurant. She has been going with a young man from Sanish for some time. He is all right; I believe they were to be married."

"This Willie Nafus kept hanging around the restaurant. Everybody knows his reputation. Alice knew it too. He tried to get Alice to go out with him. She never would. Saturday night he followed her from the restaurant. Near the school house he stopped her. A struggle followed. Then Alice fainted."

"For two days and two nights Alice cried. A barber shop is in the same building as the restaurant. Alice knew one of the barbers kept a revolver in his coat which was hanging on a wall."

"Monday she reached in the pocket, got the gun, followed Nafus down the street to a billiard hall and there shot and killed him. Then she fainted."

"We are going to stick to Alice. She is a good girl."

State's Attorney C. N. Cottingham said that about one year ago Nafus was under arrest here on a charge of bastardy but was dismissed after another young man had testified to being friendly with the unwed mother concerned.

Miss Holtz probably will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice George Wilson Thursday. She will plead not guilty.

HOPE OF CURE HELD OUT FOR DRUG ADDICTS

New York, Dec. 15.—(UP)—An article in the New York Medical Journal and Record and an announcement by Commissioner of Correction P. A. Wallis of New York today held out hope of cure as the Christmas gift of the scientific world to drug addicts.

The Medical Journal's report revealed that a new treatment given to 366 patients at Bellevue hospital here has resulted in apparent success in that in only one case had there been a return to the drug habit.

The treatment requires approximately three weeks, the report said, and has as its basis injections of a substance named "narcozan" which was developed and the use of which was perfected by A. S. Horowitz, a biochemist, who came here from Hungary just before the war. Its action is to remove the craving for drugs.

The treatment was also said to have worked with apparent success in cases of alcoholism and habitual users of veronal.

VISITORS ALSO INCLUDED ROYALTY OF 3 COUNTRIES

RECREATION LOVERS ENRICHED MERCHANTS AND FARMERS OF STATE

AMOUNT SPENT ESTIMATED AT $71,000,000, PLUS $12,000,000 OF LOCAL PEOPLE

By HECTOR PERRIER

St. Paul, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Minnesota's clear lakes attracted nearly two million vacationists to their shores in the three summer months. H. C. Hotelling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association told members today at the tenth annual meeting of the organization.

These visitors, including royalty of three countries, enriched the merchants and farmers of the state by more than $71,000,000, not including the $12,000,000 spent by native Minnesotans on their vacations. Hotelling said.

An industry so valuable must be encouraged, the secretary said, and must be constantly improved so as to attract new visitors, while establishing a reputation of honesty and merit with those who return each year to spend the summer months out of doors here.

In the betterment of tourist camps, which are an important feature of travel accommodations, Hotelling recommended that they be gradually placed on a pay basis. Not only would it then be possible to provide more complete equipment and more perfect police protection but it would tend to eliminate the vagabond element which has grown to the nuisance stage in tourist camps. This change to the pay basis should be made slowly, however, the secretary said, and only after it had proven worth while in the experiments.

The welfare of the tourist is regarded as most important by the association, the report said, and there is no toleration of profiteering in the handling of the tourists. One case was pointed out in which a business institution was prohibited from operating because of its high handed methods toward lake shore property buyers.

A square deal for everybody is the motto of the organization as exemplified by a recently published editorial: "Minnesota, the Land of Ten Thousand Lakes and No Fakes."

"The marked increase in the number of tourists during the past five years points to a still greater number in 1927," the report said. Methods were suggested by which the state could gain wider recognition and publicity. One novel scheme suggested by Warren Tingle of Minneapolis found favor with Hotelling. Tingle proposed that the phrase "Land of Ten Thousand Lakes" be printed on Minnesota automobile license plates. With many of the 600,000 cars of the state on the nation's highways, tremendous publicity could be obtained at little cost.

Minnesota had her share of famous visitors during the year past, the report showed. Not only such guests as her majesty, Queen Marie of Rumania, Prince Gustave and Princess Louise of Sweden, who stopped here on their tours of the nation, but others who came here to enjoy vacations at our lakes.

Her highness Princess Maria De Bourbon and Duchess De Oporto De Braganza, both of Spain, spent several weeks at Rainy Lake.

Sinclair Lewis, noted author, whose home was originally at Sauk Center, returned to his home state to spend his vacation this year.

Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine and Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis fished in Minnesota lakes for several days. Former Governor, of Illinois Frank O. Lowden spent a short vacation here.

Babe Ruth of the New York Yankee baseball team visited the state twice, enjoying a few days on the duck ponds during each visit.

The late Ernest T. Winship of Owatonna, who at his death was president of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association, was praised in glowing terms at the conclusion of Hotelling's report. Winship, the secretary said, desired to make Minnesota take rank as a summer resort with Florida and California as winter resorts. "With the loyal co-operation of native sons Winship's ambitions may soon be realized," the report concluded.

Possibility that the slayer may have obtained the round nose shovel with which Clara's grave is believed to have been dug from a road grader which was working in the vicinity of the home of the youth on September 9, the day before Clara disappeared, developed today.

Andrew Munson, a road patrolman, told authorities that he missed a shovel that day.

"I didn't think anything of it," he said. "Thought it just fell off the grader and was lost."

Doctors testified at the inquest that the girl died from blows which were probably administered with an implement of this kind.

CORN GROWERS SEEK TO OUST SECRETARY JARDINE

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Ousting of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in favor of a man "whose practical training qualifies him for the position" is asked in a resolution promulgated by the National Corn Growers' association in annual convention here.

The resolution will be forwarded today to the Iowa delegation in congress with the request that immediate action be taken.

The resolution further pledges the support of the association to the farm legislative committee in congress; extended sympathy to the cotton and tobacco growers and invited them to cooperate in gaining suitable farm relief legislation.

SEEK TO EVADE IMMIGRATION LAWS OF U. S.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT OPERATIVES ESTIMATE NUMBER AT 3,000

OTHERS SAY THERE ARE 6,000 OR MORE AWAITING CHANCE TO SLIP OVER

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Several thousands of aliens were reported today along the boundary between the United States and Canada watching for the opportunity to evade the United States immigration laws by slipping across the frontier during the extraordinary Christmas tourist movement.

Canadian government operatives estimate that 3,000 such aliens were waiting for their chance. Other persons in touch with the situation estimated that 6,000 and perhaps more aliens were ready to slip over in spite of the American "stay out" signs.

The last boat from Europe to dock in Montreal unloaded a large number of aliens who freely admitted that they were bound for the United States but that they would not be able to enter the country legally. During the autumn many aliens came to Canada and went directly to cities where there were considerable colonies of their fellows to receive a brief training preliminary to entry into the United States.

Montreal is the assembling point for the Canadian alien smuggling traffic and there were believed to be approximately 1,000 aliens in Montreal today waiting for vigilance across the border to relax.

Stories of prospective tax rebates in the United States and other indications of good living, well paid work and plenty, keep the ranks of the would-be Americans filled although some of the aliens slip away and are seen no more in Canada.

The thin, hopeful line extends from Montreal to the Niagara river, to Windsor, Ont., which is across from Detroit and on to the west, where long miles of prairie or woodland are marked at spots by police which explain that on this side is Canada and on the other the United States.

At small towns along the St. Claire river and at Hamilton, Toronto and Niagara Falls the waiting game is being played with American prosperity the goal of the players. It is notable that large numbers of aliens who recently entered Canada have headed immediately for western Canadian provinces. This was said to have resulted from the authorities' increased efforts to prevent alien smuggling from Ontario and Quebec into the United States.

CHILD SUFFERS SEVERE BURNS

Red Wing, Minn., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Lorraine, 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Haller, was in a hospital here today suffering from serious burns about the head and hands, following her narrow escape from death in a burning home Tuesday night.

The blaze which was caused by the explosion of a kitchen oil stove spread so rapidly that the child's clothing caught fire as she was attempting to escape.

Mrs. Haller, after rescuing two smaller children, picked up the blazing girl and threw her into a snowbank. The child is expected to recover. The home was destroyed.

PRETTY WAITER GIRL KILLED HER ADMIRER

RESENTED TACTICS OF MAN WHO FOLLOWED AND MOLESTED HER

GETS A REVOLVER AND SHOOTS DOWN THE MAN AT POOL ROOM

Stanley, N. D., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Believing their daughter did a service to "all womankind," the parents of Miss Alice Holtz, 20, pretty, big eyed waitress, rallied today to her defense. She was being brought here from Sanish where she shot and killed William Nafus, 23, an admirer.

A charge of first degree murder was to be lodged against Miss Holtz on her arrival here as the result of the verdict of a coroner's jury at Sanish, recommending she be held. "I'm sorry," the girl said.

Discussing the case with newspaper men, the father today revealed the motive for the shooting, which had puzzled authorities.

"Alice is a good girl," he said at his home here. "She went to Sanish to work in a restaurant. She has been going with a young man from Sanish for some time. He is all right; I believe they were to be married."

"This Willie Nafus kept hanging around the restaurant. Everybody knows his reputation. Alice knew it too. He tried to get Alice to go out with him. She never would. Saturday night he followed her from the restaurant. Near the school house he stopped her. A struggle followed. Then Alice fainting."

"For two days and two nights Alice cried. A barber shop is in the same building as the restaurant. Alice knew one of the barbers kept a revolver in his coat which was hanging on a wall."

"Monday she reached in the pocket, got the gun, followed Nafus down the street to a billiard hall and there shot and killed him. Then she fainted."

"We are going to stick to Alice. She is a good girl."

State's Attorney C. N. Cottingham said that about one year ago Nafus was under arrest here on a charge of bastardy but was dismissed after another young man had testified to being friendly with the unwed mother concerned.

Miss Holtz probably will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice George Wilson Thursday. She will plead not guilty.

HOPE OF CURE HELD OUT FOR DRUG ADDICTS

New York, Dec. 15.—(UP)—An article in the New York Medical Journal and Record and an announcement by Commissioner of Correction F. A. Wallis of New York today held out hope of cure as the Christmas gift of the scientific world to drug addicts.

The Medical Journal's report revealed that a new treatment given to 366 patients at Bellevue hospital here has resulted in apparent success in that in only one case had there been a return to the drug habit.

The treatment requires approximately three weeks, the report said, and has as its basis injections of a substance named "narcosan" which was developed and the use of which was perfected by A. S. Horowitz, a biochemist, who came here from Hungary just before the war. Its action is to remove the craving for drugs.

The treatment was also said to have worked with apparent success in cases of alcoholism and habitual users of veronal.

VISITORS ALSO INCLUDED ROYALTY OF 3 COUNTRIES

RECREATION LOVERS ENRICHED MERCHANTS AND FARMERS OF STATE

AMOUNT SPENT ESTIMATED AT $71,000,000, PLUS $12,000,000 OF LOCAL PEOPLE

By HECTOR PERRIER
St. Paul, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Minnesota's clear lakes attracted nearly two million vacationists to their shores in the three summer months, H. C. Hotelling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association told members today at the tenth annual meeting of the organization.

These visitors, including royalty of three countries, enriched the merchants and farmers of the state by more than $71,000,000, not including the $12,000,000 spent by native Minnesotans on their vacations, Hotelling said.

An industry so valuable must be encouraged, the secretary said, and must be constantly improved so as to attract new visitors, while establishing a reputation of honesty and merit with those who return each year to spend the summer months out of doors here.

In the betterment of tourist camps, which are an important feature of travel accommodations, Hotelling recommended that they be gradually placed on a pay basis. Not only would it then be possible to provide more complete equipment and more perfect police protection but it would tend to eliminate the vagabond element which has grown to the nuisance stage in tourist camps. This change to the pay basis should be made slowly, however, the secretary said, and only after it had proven worth while in the experiments.

The welfare of the tourist is regarded as most important by the association, the report said, and there is no toleration of profiteering in the handling of the tourists. One case was pointed out in which a business institution was prohibited from operating because of its high handed methods toward lake shore property buyers.

A square deal for everybody is the motto of the organization as exemplified by a recently published editorial: "Minnesota, the Land of Ten Thousand Lakes and No Fakes."

"The marked increase in the number of tourists during the past five years points to a still greater number in 1927," the report said. Methods were suggested by which the state could gain wider recognition and publicity. One novel scheme suggested by Warren Tingale of Minneapolis found favor with Hotelling. Tingale proposed that the phrase "Land of Ten Thousand Lakes" be printed on Minnesota automobile license plates. With many of the 600,000 cars of the state on the nation's highways, tremendous publicity could be obtained at little cost.

Minnesota had her share of famous visitors during the year past, the report showed. Not only such guests as her majesty, Queen Marie of Rumania, Prince Gustave and Princess Louise of Sweden, who stopped here on their tours of the nation, but others who came here to enjoy vacations at our lakes.

Her highness Princess Maria De Bourbon and Duchess De Oporto De Braganza, both of Spain, spent several weeks at Rainy Lake.

Sinclair Lewis, noted author, whose home was originally at Sauk Center, returned to his home state to spend his vacation this year.

Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine and Secretary of Labor J. J. Davis fished in Minnesota lakes for several days. Former Governor of Illinois Frank O. Lowden spent a short vacation here.

Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees baseball team visited the state twice, enjoying a few days on the duck passes during each visit.

The late Ernest T. Winship of Owatonna, who at his death was president of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association, was praised in glowing terms at the conclusion of Hotelling's report. Winship, the secretary said, desired to make Minnesota take rank as a summer resort with Florida and California as winter resorts. "With the loyal co-operation of native sons Winship's ambitions may soon be realized," the report concluded.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

Jacob Graff Employed as Caretaker, Rink to be Ready for Christmas Holidays

Work on a municipal skating rink will be started immediately, on the site of the A. A. White grounds south of the court house, according to action taken at a well-attended meeting of the Brainerd Outdoor Sports club last night, held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The rink is being staked out this afternoon, and a call is sent out for anyone interested to come down with shovels, axes, and other implements and help in getting the ground ready for the ice. It is the hope of the club that the rink will be ready for use by the Christmas holidays.

Jacob Graff has been employed as caretaker of the rink. He will have charge of the warming house and checking room, and will keep the ice in condition for skating. The old warming house of the park board will be moved from its present location on South Tenth street to the new grounds, and repaired.

Following the building of the skating rink, work will start on a separate hockey rink adjoining the skating rink. A number of hockey teams are in the making and competition between different sections of the city is sure to be keen.

Membership cards at one dollar for the year are in the hands of a number of members, who are trying to build up the club into large membership proportions. The next meeting of the club will be held in about two weeks, notice to be given through the Dispatch.

Free Will Offering Taken to Aid Miss Michael in City Christmas Work

Recently a small group of Federated Church Women attended prayer services at the Y. M. C. A. parlors, Mrs. P. G. Fallquist, leading, the subject being "The Prince of Peace." Mrs. Hemsworth in her usually fine voice and manner sang, "Thou Didd'st Leave Thy Throne" by Emily Elliott. Mrs. Morris Evers reported that Priscilla Brainerd with her sisters Barbara Jane and Gloria Dawn, expect to be numbered with a party of 250,000 dolls which will take part in the Japanese doll festival in March in the dreams of the National secretary of the Federated Church Women of America comes true.

The local group of women also served a breakfast, Thanksgiving morning at which a free will offering was made. It was voted to place the collection at Miss Michael's disposal to aid her in her city Christmas work.

HEDDA HOYT SAYS--

By HEDDA HOYT
WHAT'S IN A NAME?
New York, Dec. 14. — (UP)—What's in a name? Nothing to be sure. Yet a name can positively be disfiguring to an individual. Many of us have names which could bear altering in order to conform with our personalities. Two-hundred pound Lilys, pale Rosies, unpopular Belles and woebegone Hopes are numerous. Women blessed with more or less meaningless monikers such as Margueret, Katherine, Lucile or Dorothy have nothing to worry about since these names express no particular personalities.

Very few people have names which are suited to them since we seldom grow up into the Violets, Percys, Prudences and Graces which our parents hoped for. Fanciful names which recall old-time novels or early day Pullman cars have made a sober-minded person the subject of ridicule. Nicknames likewise often cast a damper over one's self-respect. I have seen fat and forty-year-old Babes prattling baby talk in effort to cope with their childish nicknames.

Names have much to do with the impressions one forms of an individual. When one is cursed with a ridiculous name one should change the name. Often a little altering of the spelling makes the name more suitable to the individual. For instance, I have in mind a most eccentric little Miss named Sarah. Sarah did not express her vividness, her unusual vitality, and so she changed her name to Sarenne which seemed somehow to express her.

Often one can use the foreign spelling of their name to advantage. Helen is a name which is a good illustration of this. Helen may be expressed as Helene, Eleana, Elinor, Elenore, Lenore, Lenora, Eleanora or Ellen. A great many names have their foreign equivalents which are spelled and pronounced differently. Usually French and Italian pronunciations are a bit softer than English. German pronunciations are a bit more harsh. There is no excuse for one carrying from birth to the grave a name which is distasteful in any way.

find ourselves returning to white or to the holly colors of red and green. Several well-groomed women appeared on the Avenue today wearing corsages of huge white cyprianthiums. White sprays of lilies-of-the-valley combined with a single white orchid were also worn. One or two white felt hats made their appearance with black and white costumes. White has been strongly reflected in evening modes, many gowns glistening with crystal beadwork in icicle effect.

The crinkled tie-dyed lengths of silk which Japanese women wear at the top of their obis are now included among the smart new neckwear items. These are long strips of silk crinkled in little diamond designs and dyed in lovely soft intricate color shadings. Women first saw these in the Japanese arts shops and, recently, department stores have included them among their scarfs.

The peasant frock which was introduced in America with the coming of Queen Marie, is shelved as a failure. It had the form-fitting bodice of normal waistline, full gathered skirt and huge sleeves which gathered into wrist-bands. Very few women cared to conceal their folded lines beneath the voluminous details of the peasant skirt.

Washable leather is a new item for trimmings and hats. Leather has long been considered a smart asset in sports apparel and now that it can be washed it will doubtless be more popular than ever.

Coats of suede cloth combined with matching fur are extremely chic. A mole-colored suede coat, for instance, is covered so completely with mole fur trimming that only a three-inch border of the suede fabric outlines collar, cuffs, fronts and hemline. Another cloth and suede model combines a blouse of brown caracul with sleeves and skirt of brown suede cloth.

Patent shoes in shades such as gun metal, brown, bronze and channel red are among the seasonal novelties.

Good Health Requires Good Elimination

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

CHILD WELFARE BOARD WORK DROPPED

EVIDENTLY child welfare board work as carried on in Cass county is considered a duplication of effort and does not meet with the approbation of the majority of the county commissioners, for in the Walker Pilot one reads that by a vote of the board of commissioners, the State Board of Control is requested to discontinue the Child Welfare work in the county.

The work was instituted in 1919 when the State Board of Control was petitioned by the commissioners to authorize the work in this county and appoint representatives. Since that time the board has been active, many of the leading citizens of the county having served in the work.

In this regard it is of interest to state that the Child Welfare board consists of the County Superintendent of Schools, the Judge of Probate, a designated member of the county board of commissioners and three citizens of the county appointed by the State Board of Control.

"Their work," continues the Walker Pilot, "is among the county poor and juvenile delinquency cases. Commissioner Lyman voted against the resolution, maintaining that to discontinue the board was a step backward, that the costs incurred was more than offset by the commendable work that had been accomplished. Mr. Lyman thought that the board had, especially in juvenile delinquency cases, corrected evils and brought about justice that could have been accomplished in no other way.

"The other members of the board took the stand that the work of the Child Welfare board was a duplication of work done by the county board. In other words the work could be done by the county board and Judge of Probate with less expense and just as much thoroughness and equal justice to all concerned.

"All members of the Child Welfare board serve without pay. Their services and time are given to the county without hope of remuneration. Their expenses are paid by the county and have averaged about $300 per year since the work was instituted seven years ago."

WRECKING MARRIAGES

HERE is another cause for divorce. An eminent lawyer who has appeared in 1772 divorce cases says that the mother-in-law really is not the cause for divorces. In only six of the cases with which he has had experience was the mother-in-law at the bottom of the disagreement. He does not even place drink and cruelty, poor cooking or lack of children as the causes. He says that the cause of divorce is the installment plan and cites positive proof.

Maybe there is something to it. The engagement ring may be bought on the installment plan; the furniture may be bought on installment; the baby carriage or automobile may be bought for a few dollars down.

All of this reminds us of the picture we saw or story we heard about the young husband who returned home one evening. He was met at the door by his wife and baby. "Well," he said, as he took off his overcoat, "I paid the doctor $10 more on account today." The young wife looked happy as she said, "Good, two more payments and the baby will be ours."

We note that the so-called economic experts of the country are now engaging in a discussion as to the installment buying plan and method. Perhaps they would consider this subject in relation to marital disasters and see if the Chicago lawyer is right.—Grand Rapids Herald-Review.

Two more motorists were fined in Brainerd Saturday for driving cars with but one headlight in use. The one light driver is dangerous to meet, and a little attention to the car at the proper time will eliminate the trouble. Those who will not see to their lights are attended to by the Brainerd police.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

WILD life of various kind is reappearing in the north. From Cohasset we get a report that two members of Minnesota's early wild life family, long believed extinct in that vicinity, elk and passenger pigeons, have been seen by people there. A large bull elk with six foot antlers has been heard "bugling."

MAN had a hard luck story to tell last night. He let his car run idle in the garage to warm up. When he returned it had warmed up so well that the alcohol mixture had heated, boiled over and evaporated to the extent that the radiator required another expensive filling.

In the correct education of children, as pointed out by Judge Lawrence T. Grasser, who has evidently had a few, the learned judge is not a bit adverse to counseling use of a shingle in the woodshed when all other means at correction fail.

A STATUE of the late Senator Knute Nelson will be erected on the state capital grounds during the fall of next year, according to plans announced by the memorial committee. The cost of the memorial will be about $30,000.

WELL, our weather of today has about equalled the record of 25 years ago, as mentioned in Dispatch columns. Twenty-eight below on the government thermometer equals 30 or more on a street thermometer.

WITH the advent of cold weather comes hotter fires, bringing in its train the daily roll of chimney fires, etc. Be sure your heating plant and chimney are in the best of order before firing full capacity.

MINNESOTA butter is gaining such a high reputation that the bank bandits are leaving the banks alone and devoting their attention to stealing the golden product of the creameries.

OF late, the old slogan of "Iowa, Where the Tall Corn Grows," has been succeeded by, "Iowa, Where Every Family Reads a Daily Newspaper."

THAT car ferry that grounded on the rocks off Fox Point, Lake Michigan, evidently figured it was taking a sidetrack.

COLD weather inaugurates the great game of watching the thermometer, the furnace and the coal pile.

"DON'T TELL THE WIFE," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picture.

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismatches. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are guests on a weekend cruise on the Stivner yacht, a widow, Clare, rams Ranny, arousing Stivner's jealousy. Ranny grows Clare means nothing to him, mollifying Stivner. Ranny punishes Abner in a way that nearly costs his life and Joan's. And his chums confer mysteriously on another scheme. The guests are consumed with curiosity when they hear Ranny say his motto now is "Don't Tell the Wife!"

Mrs. Jeffens and the other furred ones were of a mind to put Clare Clemenceau and her blonde Snowy wiles on the task of ferreting out of Livingstone Stivner what all the mystery was about.

But Clare, strange to say, had a rather well-defined sense of the fitness of certain things. A much deeper and cleverer slant and attack than her purring conferees. She adopted a mousey quietness—tipped about demure and subdued, and appeared quite awed by the near-tragedy; made no eyes at Ranny, and was docile and affectionately partial to Stivner.

Clare knew the gentle art of biding time.

CHAPTER XVI

It was a whole week after their return home before Ranny could get a word, edgewise or otherwise, with Joan.

Immediately upon landing at Glen Cove she had engaged a taxi and driven off alone and aloof.

At home she had closed herself in her apartment, taking her meals there, carefully going out for air.

"I'm going away," he explained.

ings and so forth only when assured that Ranny was not at home and not likely to encounter her.

The sum total of information that Ranny could get out of Joan's personal maid by bribery and cajolery was:

"Madame sees packing, sir. She sees going to Europe so soon she gets three. Monsieur!"

He bluffed and bullied his way into her boudoir one night, finally.

The stare Joan turned upon him was utterly impersonal, profoundly indifferent.

"You needn't look so plagued re- note—as though you had never seen this poor fish before!" he began, lamely and mirthlessly, and very white of face.

No answer.

"I—there's something I think you ought to know, Joan," he went on then. As he talked he grew a little more confident. Not at all chatty, though. Not the Ranny of old, taking things for granted. Serious. Serious and businesslike.

"I'm going away," he explained hurriedly. "There's no need for you to leave here. I'm going to clear out. I realize the mess things have become—the mess that I've made of them. I won't tax your patience by trying to explain anything. I'll just go—out of your life forever—like a bad dream!"

Ranny had practiced that line in front of his mirror until he had got just the right wrinkle of wistful pathos into his brow and the most dramatic quaver possible in his voice. He had figured it would make a great deal in Joan's coldness. But:

"Indeed! How interesting!" she intoned musically, in exactly the same way she would have done if a footman had told her he had an ingrowing toenail.

Cold sweat started upon Ranny's forehead, but he stuck to his appointed conduct and words, and sulked:

"I've put a deal through with Livingstone Stivner. He's taken me into a sort of partnership. It's a jolly enough job, too. I'm a sort of traveling field manager. Have to make the rounds of his chief lumber camps, all over the country, straightening out any labor or business tangle, sparring production, and all that sort of thing, you know. Rather a two-handed job, from what Stivner says. The lumber men are rough customers, and have to be bullied without gloves."

"Work you are ideally fitted for," she commented maliciously.

"Oh, I say, now, Joan—don't go on cherishing rage over a harmless prank that just got a bit out of hand. I regret it all. And I'm willing to go any lengths to set myself four-square with you and Abner. Fact is, I've invited him up tonight so that we three can talk things over."

"You've—WHAT?"

"I said I've asked Abner to come here tonight! Listen, Joan, I know things are hopelessly out of whack between you and I—"

"Really, your discernment is remarkable—almost psychic!"

"—and more than anything else in the world I want to see you happy."

"What touching nobility!"

"Please, Joan, save your sarcasm until you've heard me out. I propose to let you and Abner have each other, since that seems to be the thing that will make you happiest."

"But," she snapped icily, "that's all very well for you to suddenly become so broad-minded about ME, but you're overlooking the fact that you're wives and mine of mine are radically opposed. You cannot understand that a virtuous woman, enchained by marriage, will stifle her heart's inclination."

"But divorce ends the need for scruples, and I'm going to arrange a divorce for you—"

"Ranny!" joyfully, incredulously, "you're really going to give me a divorce?"

"I am. That's why I've sent for Abner. To tell you my plans; to give you both a little fatherly advice."

"Ranny, you old dear, I knew that some day your instinct of fair play would be touched, and that you'd do the sporting thing! I'm willing to forgive you anything now, even preaching—though that's a strange role for you—"

"It isn't that I want to preach, exactly, but out of my experience as a benedict—my sad experience, I might say—there are a few material hints I can give a lad with a twenty thousand a year income about supporting a wife accustomed to using five hundred thousand a year of her husband's money!"

"How do you know Abner's income?" with quick interest.

"Stivner's bank is trustee for the Gratman estate. Of course, Abner needn't worry much about his own rather impoverished circumstances, though, because the million odd a year that you have in your own right will help out. A marriage for love, but it won't be so bad for Abner, eh? Of course, you are madly in love with him, Joan?"

"Well, yes, I guess—don't say madly, though, old dear. Don't exaggerate!" she said slowly, rather thoughtfully.

"Then, also, I think I'd ought to advise him to take up athletics—exercise, gymnasium, and that rot. A husband ought to be in tip top shape always, for in these days of bandits and what-not, a chap never knows when he'll have to fight for his wife."

"But," quickly changing the subject, "what are your plans for getting the divorce?"

"Nothing simpler. My first trip will be to Minnesota. I'll establish a home, and at the end of six months I'll merely prove that you've never lived with me. Under the laws of that state, therefore, I am a wronged and deserted husband, deprived of the services and company of my wife, and justly entitled to the relief contemplated by a divorce."

"What got into you all of a sudden, Ranny? A week ago you wouldn't hear of a divorce and now you can rattle state divorce laws off like an ambulance chaser."

"Nothing got into me, except a desire to sacrifice myself in order to assure your happiness."

"Sacrifice yourself? My dear! It's YOU who will be suing me for divorce! Is that the—ah, most gallant way out?" Joan's words dripped with sarcasm, as only Joan's words could.

"Desertion is the easiest and least distressing cause for suit. Even that we'll have to manufacture. And it will save you a lot of time and bother if you'll let me do all the dirty work of preparing the way. You see, one of the drawbacks of having a model husband like me—ahem, if I must say it myself—is that it—he—I—gives—gave you no legal or moral justification for canning him. There are no possible grounds for you to sue me on, except—"

"Well!" aggressively.

"Well, cruelty—and as Heaven is my witness, I've never been that!"

"Of course the night of terror you subjected me to last week was an act of loving kindness!"

R. of this city held its regular meeting on Saturday evening, December 14, one new member was added to the order and the post books and accounts were inspected by Post Commander J. A. After adjournment a substantial lunch of baked beans, crackers and coffee was brought in by the commander to which the boys did ample justice interspersing the repast with many anecdotes of the war and explaining how they put down the rebellion. At a late hour every one went home well pleased.

Washington, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Plans of house republican leaders to restore Representative John M. Nelson, Wisconsin, leader of the insurgent group to regular party councils and assign him a committee chairmanship have been dropped.

Neither Nelson nor leaders would explain the sudden termination of negotiations, although the former indicated he would explain his position late this week.

Leaders sought to have Nelson made chairman of the pensions committee but considerable opposition arose to the plan and it was abandoned.

"What touching nobility!"

"Please, Joan, save your sarcasm until you've heard me out. I propose to let you and Abner have each other, since that seems to be the thing that will make you happiest."

"But," she snapped feily, "that's all very well for you to suddenly become so broad-minded about ME, but you're overlooking the fact that you're views and mine of morals are radically opposed. You cannot understand that a virtuous woman, chained by marriage, will still have her heart's inclination for—"

"But divorce ends the need for scruples, and I'm going to arrange a divorce for you—"

"Ranny!" joyfully, incredulously, "you're really going to give me a divorce?"

"I am. That's why I've sent for Abner. To tell you my plans; to give you both a little fatherly advice."

"Ranny, you old dear, I know that some day your instinct of fair play would be touched, and that you'd do the sporting thing! I'm willing to forgive you anything now, even preaching—though that's a strange role for you—"

"It isn't that I want to preach, exactly, but out of my experience, I might say—there are a few material hints I can give a lad with a twenty thousand a year income about supporting a wife accustomed to using five hundred thousand a year of her husband's money!"

"How do you know Abner's income?" with quick interest.

"Stivner's bank is trustee for the Gratman estate. Of course, Abner needn't worry much about his own rather impoverished circumstances, though, because the million odd a year that you have in your own right will help out. A marriage for love, but it won't be so bad for Abner, eh? Of course, you are madly in love with him, Joan?"

"Well, yes, I guess—don't say madly, though, old dear. Don't exaggerate!" she said slowly, rather thoughtfully.

"Then, also, I think I'd ought to advise him to take up athletics—exercise, gymnasium, and that rot. A husband ought to be in tip top shape always, for in these days of bandits and what-not, a chap never knows when he'll have to fight for his wife."

"But," quickly changing the subject, "what are your plans for getting the divorce?"

"Nothing simpler. My first trip will be to Minnesota. I'll establish a home, and at the end of six months I'll merely prove that you've never lived with me. Under the laws of that state, therefore, I am a wronged and deserted husband, deprived of the services and company of my wife, and justly entitled to the relief contemplated by a divorce."

"What got into you all of a sudden, Ranny? A week ago you wouldn't hear of a divorce and now you can rattle state divorce laws off like an ambulance chaser."

"Nothing got into me, except a desire to sacrifice myself in order to assure your happiness."

"Sacrifice yourself? My dear! It's YOU who will be suing me for divorce! Is that the—ah, most gallant way out?" Joan's words dripped with sarcasm, as only Joan's words could.

"Desertion is the easiest and least distressing cause for suit. Even that we'll have to manufacture. And it will save you a lot of time and bother if you'll let me do all the dirty work of preparing the way. You see, one of the drawbacks of having a model husband like me—ahem, if I must say it myself—is that it—he—I—gives—gives you no legal or moral justification for canning him. There are no possible grounds for you to sue me on, except—"

"Well!" aggressively.

"Well, cruelty—and as Heaven is my witness, I've never been that!"

"Of course the night of terror you subjected me to last week was an act of loving kindness!"

TO RESTORE NELSON
TO PARTY COUNCILS

Washington, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Plans of house republican leaders to restore Representative John M. Nelson, Wisconsin, leader of the insurgent group to regular party councils and assign him a committee chairmanship have been dropped.

Neither Nelson nor leaders would explain the sudden termination of negotiations, although the former indicated he would explain his position late this week.

Leaders sought to have Nelson made chairman of the pensions committee but considerable opposition arose to the plan and it was abandoned.

LONG COURT BATTLE FORECAST IN ORMISTON CASE

FORMER ANGELUS TEMPLE RADIO OPERATOR NOW AT CHICAGO

IS PIVOT FIGURE IN THE AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON AFFAIR

Chicago, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The opening court battle in what promises to be a long fight to remove Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator and pivot figure in the Aimee Semple McPherson case, to California, was scheduled to start in municipal court here today.

Wanted in Los Angeles on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice in connection with the charges now pending against Mrs. McPherson, Ormiston announced that he will fight extradition to the coast.

Certified copies of the warrant issued against him in Los Angeles are here and Frank Tyrrell, assistant corporation counsel, will go into court today to attempt to bring about the arrest of the former radio operator, who was found in Harrisburg, Pa., a few days ago after having been a fugitive for four months and brought here. Ormiston has remained in seclusion since his arrival in Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator, wanted in California in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping case, has agreed to surrender to Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins here at 11 A. M. Friday, Chief Collins announced here today. He will surrender in the chief's office.

Ormiston is suffering from a bad cold and his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin, asked Collins to postpone the arrest until Friday, the chief said.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 15.—Additional witnesses were called before the Los Angeles county grand jury today to testify against Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant in the Aimee Semple McPherson case.

Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennison in charge of the state's legal battle to bring the radio man here from Chicago to stand trial with Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, was still hopeful today of an indictment. Five witnesses testified yesterday.

"Gigolo" A Delight
Proving itself delightful in every respect, Rod La Rocque's new star picture, "Gigolo," created a fine impression on its first presentation at the Lyceum theatre yesterday. It will be shown again tonight in conjunction with the Lyceum annual "Country Store" prize night. This is a screen version of Edna Ferber's story of the French war heroes who are known as "gigolos," or dancing partners of wealthy women who frequent Parisian cafes. Mr. La Rocque impersonates a young American aviator whose face is mutilated during the war and subsequently rebuilt by the aid of plastic surgery. He becomes a changed man in appearance thereby and his friends fail to recognize him.

"HE WHO HESITATES IS LOST"

And he who does not make it a habit to hesitate before making important moves is certain to have more than his share of trouble.

Truth has no fear of TIME. The years of eternity are its best friend. Error and falsehood are always in a hurry. They dare not wait. TIME is an enemy they dare not meet.

The seller of dependable merchandise can afford to wait. The seller of blue sky, the fake stock promoter and the get-rich-quick-lose-quicker artist must have your name on the dotted line before the train leaves.

He who rushes in without consideration is usually ushered out without sympathy.

If the peace conference could be held before the declarations of war are issued there would be few hostilities. History is a record of belated hesitating.

He who hesitates before investing good money, buying goods he cannot pay for, mortgaging his home to buy a car, making love to another man's wife, trying to fool the government on his income tax report, betting on the other man's game or telling the boss where to head in is pretty apt to live to win another day.

He who hesitates saves himself many high-priced quarrels, some humiliating apologies, a few disgraceful stories and much time wasted on regrets.

Hesitating has never involved any man in as much trouble as impulsive and unconsidered actions.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

A burglar, evidently with a sweet tooth, entered the Burg store early this morning and played havoc with candy, peanuts and gum. The employees on the lookout for clues finally found the culprit in the jewelry department which also contains toilet accessories and beautifiers. Small wonder, the victim, dressed in somber gray, was indeed a sorry sight and the girls very much in sympathy with it felt loathe to interrupt its operations (they understood the value of cosmetics.)

Upon the advent of the manager, Mr. Benson, matters were somewhat straightened out who explained that the thief had made visits before, appeared suddenly from goodness knows where and disappearing in the same manner.

Some patrons while making their early morning purchases yelled "the bat" but the cause of disturbance was nothing more than a cold disheartened sparrow who had failed to "follow the swallow home."

All efforts to make it brave the wintry elements were fruitless.

NO ADVANCE

MONEY, NO CONCERT,
SAYS MARION TALLEY

New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Marion Talley, the Kansas City singer, who made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company, last season, walked out on an audience of 1,000 here last night without singing.

The audience learned the reason later in the evening. It was reported that the sponsors of a series of concerts in New Rochelle had failed to pay Miss Talley $3,000 in advance in drafts on New York banks. Personal checks totalling $2,000 were refused.

New York, Dec. 15.—(UP)—"It wasn't temperamental at all—it was just good business," was Miss Marion Talley's explanation here of her walkout on a New Rochelle audience last night.

"Mr. Coppicus, my manager, had told the people we would have to have $3,000 in advance," she said, "and they failed to have the money."

DIAMOND RETURNS TO STABLE HOME

Garnett, Kan., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Diamond, the six ton elephant that frolicked five days through as many Kansas counties, while hard riding possemen vainly sought to capture him, was back home at "Honest Bill" Newton's barn today.

The roving elephant whose trail through Kansas is marked by broken fences, dead pigs, frightened farmers and terrified livestock was cornered near Kincaid late Tuesday and submitted willingly to the hands of Jack Provance and D. F. Nasten, veteran elephant men.

The New (Constant Viscosity) Motor Oil

Developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to solve the problem of dilution of motor oil in the crank case. And it does it. In the past all motor oils have been compromises. Satisfactory in varying degrees—yes—but still compromises. That's news!

Trouble in cold weather—trouble starting—trouble after a few hundreds miles of motoring—always a little trouble somewhere! In the past, motor oils have had to compromise in order to meet two contradictory demands. They have had to be light to enable the engine to turn over easily in starting—they have had to be heavy to maintain a safe viscosity after a few hundred miles of motoring. They have met neither demand perfectly. Startling! But true.

Hundreds of tests have shown that ordinary oil becomes diluted, losing two-thirds of its viscosity in the first 150 to 180 miles of travel. Amazing? Yes—but read on. After that viscosity remains fairly constant. An oil light enough for easy starting and cold weather lubrication, becomes too thin for safety before the car has gone a hundred miles. A surprise to you, no doubt.

The First Motor Oil That is Not a Compromise

It has been developed in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to meet the new theory of scientific lubrication. It is light enough to insure easy turn over of the engine in starting even in cold weather, and heavy enough to maintain a proper lubricating film over all bearing surfaces. It gives perfect cold weather lubrication and does not wear out. What does this mean to you? It means that Iso-Vis maintains a viscosity within "the zone of correct lubrication."

Hundreds of tests have proved that an oil, to be within "the zone of correct lubrication", must have viscosity of from 200 to 150 Saybolt at 100° F.

Iso-Vis is right to start with—right for cold weather—still right after a thousand miles of motoring.

It has been scientifically developed to meet a new theory of scientific lubrication. It makes no compromise. In cost Iso-Vis is a little higher than ordinary oil—in satisfaction there is no comparison. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud to offer Iso-Vis to its millions of motoring friends in the Middle West. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recommends Iso-Vis for use in your car. LANDIS IS RETAINED AS BASEBALL CZAR

JOINT MEETING OF TWO LEAGUES TO SET SALARY

NATIONAL LEAGUE DESIRES A SLIGHT CHANGE IN ADMIN- ISTRATION OF GAME

PLAYING RULES AND AGREEMENTS WITH MINORS ARE TO BE SOUGHT

By HENRY L. FARRELL

New York, Dec. 15.—As has been predicted frequently, Commissioner K. M. Landis will be retained as head of professional baseball for another long term.

The National League meeting in session here yesterday voted to continue the present administration of baseball and the American League reached the commissioner first with its vote of confidence after its session in Chicago.

The American League, seeking to overcome any notion that they were forced into the endorsement of the commissioner by the big club of the National League, voted through its session and sent a committee to wait on the commissioner and extend regards.

The term of the contract regarding time and salary will be decided upon at the joint meeting of the two leagues in Chicago on Thursday.

A significant move was made by the National League owners, however, that indicated a desire for a slight change in the administration of the game.

The National League owners appointed a standing committee consisting of Barney Dreyfus, William Eeck and William F. Baker to represent the league in all questions involving the major leagues and the minors.

It was explained that it was the sense of the meeting that it would be practical to revise the playing rules and the agreements with the minors.

The American League followed the same course. It may be that the commissioner will have it suggested to him to take representatives of the two leagues into conference with him.

The National League announced attendance for the season of a little less than 5,000,000, an increase of 600,000 over the previous records; that Chicago led the league in business; that St. Louis won the pennant; and that 332 dozen balls more were used this year than last year, a total of 4,718 dozens.

After announcing that no action had been taken on his suggestion that a batter who had not engaged in at least 100 games could not be recognized as the league champion, John A. Heydler, president of the league, admitted that he did not know who was the real batting champion this year.

It caused no surprise when no deals of importance were made, John McGraw said he would not trade Bill Terry to the Boston Braves for Joe Genewich and that the Braves could not get Frank Frisch for the whole Boston ball club.

It is likely, however, that some kind of a deal will be made between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia clubs. Donnie Bush, new manager of the Pirates, offered Stuffy McInnis, new manager of the Phillies, Yde and Aldridge, two pitchers, for Wrightson and Carlson.

By CLARK B. KELSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Dec. 15.—Kenesaw M. Landis, the first czar of organized baseball, was given a vote of confidence by directors of the American League here, who asked a committee of big league magnates to wait upon the commissioner and inform him that they are in favor of his continued reign.

The directors asked Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees, E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians, and Phil D. Cleveland of the St. Louis Browns to call upon Landis and tell him they are solidly behind him and that they wish no curtailment of his authority.

But the American League owners admitted there is "one minor point" in the agreement between the commissioner and organized baseball which they wish to discuss.

It is a safe guess that the "minor point" is the request for more activity in the advisory council, a body which was appointed to function with Landis. So far, the judge has not seen fit to seek advice from the council.

The commissioners said they would vote for retention of Landis first and argue about the minor point later. This would seem to put an end to rumors that the American League moguls are seeking the tattered scalp of the commissioner; the National League and the minors have already gone on record as being in favor of renewing the contract with Landis who was retained to purify baseball after the world's series scandal in 1919.

New directors for the coming year, were named at the session:

They are:
Frank Navin, of Detroit, Clark Griffith, of Washington, and Connie Mack, of Philadelphia. Either Bernard of Cleveland or Ball of St. Louis will be re-elected.

Reports to the directors showed that adverse weather lowered the gate receipts. A dozen Saturday and Sunday games were rained out and only one club, Detroit, completed its full schedule. Many games were delayed and a number of these were never played off.

Much gossip concerning trades is going the rounds as usual.

However, no definite action has been taken by the magnates attending the meeting.

RAINBOWS PLAY THE FAST FIVE FROM WRIGHT IN LAST GAME BEFORE WHIZ BANGS

TEAM IS FAST ROUNDING INTO FORM, WITH REGULARS BACK IN THE LINE-UP

Baseball fans will have a chance to look over the improved Rainbows team Saturday night when they come on the floor of the high school gym in an attempt to turn back the invading Wright five, which comes with a reputation for valiant deeds on the court.

Last year the Rainbows started their road trip to the Arrowhead country by upsetting the Wright team at their own battlegrounds by a score of 18 to 16, largely through the stellar shooting of Joe Day. The invading forces have dwelt on that defeat in their minds so much that they will be dangerous opponents when they appear for battle this week-end.

The Rainbows are fast rounding into shape, with the regulars back in the fold, and the Saturday night game is expected to have much to do with a choice of the opening line-up that will face the touring Whiz Bang Globe Trotters, who come here on Dec. 28th. The Wright game will be the last game for the local team before they meet the Whiz Bangers.

Engbretson has found his basket eye, and will cavort around the floor in old time style. Ericsson has been going great in teaming with Engbretson, this pair promising to make things merry for their opponents before many moons. Berensford and Ziebell are both out in uniform, and between them will handle the central post to great advantage. Welsh is again in action, after a week's lay-off and will be a great help to Orth, Fitzsimmons and Lawrenz.

Larson and Nutting are making things hot for the two regular forwards to hold their positions, and are ready to step into the fray at any minute.

The game Saturday will start at 8:15 P. M. A preliminary game between the Flying Aces and a strong opposing five will make things hot during the half hour before the big game.

KNOCKDOWN SENT HIS HEAD FLYING AGAINST THE CANVAS

Minneapolis, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Harry Berglund, 21, of St. Paul, a boxer, died in general hospital here early today. He was injured during a boxing match here Tuesday night. Carl Augustine, also of St. Paul, his opponent, is being held by police.

A knockdown that sent Berglund's head flying back against the canvas with terrific force is believed to have been the cause of the fatal injury.

The blow was struck in the sixth and last round of the fight in which Berglund had been the aggressor throughout. Augustine rallied and hooked a hard blow to the jaw. The back of Berglund's head hit the floor.

Indications were that Berglund had suffered a fracture of the skull. Physicians worked over him in the ring for half an hour but he did not regain consciousness.

Berglund fought under the name of Harry Berg. After he had been taken to a hospital, the fight card went on with the crowd unaware that the boxer had been critically injured. Augustine voluntarily gave himself up to police.

"I feel terrible about it," Augustine said today. "I laid awake all night thinking about it. I never want to fight again."

The Minnesota boxing commission investigated the fight at the ring-side, questioned Augustine, examined the ring and is preparing a formal report. It was said the boxing commission will not take any action.

A report that death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage resulting from a fracture of the skull was to be made by physicians at the inquest today.

Minneapolis, Dec. 15.—Exonerated after an investigation by County Attorney Floyd B. Olson, Carl Augustine of St. Paul, a boxer, was released from custody today. Augustine had been held following a six round fight Tuesday night in which Harry Berglund, 21, St. Paul, was fatally injured.

Berglund died early today of a cerebral hemorrhage and an investigation disclosed that a blow that sent him to the floor had caused a fracture of the skull.

WHO'S WHO IN Brainerd Independent BASKETBALL

No. 7

Marvin Nutting, Forward
Nutting hails from Sebeka, where he played grade basketball, then went to Wadena to attend high school. At Wadena he played high school basketball for two years, being one of the stars of the team, and a fast floor man. He comes to Brainerd with a good basketball reputation, and his early games this year, which is his first in independent basketball, stamp him as a worthy running mate of Engbretson and Ericsson.

Though small, Nutting covers a lot of territory in the course of a night's playing, darting into plays with fine speed.

Nutting came to Brainerd at the beginning of the last baseball season, and played centerfield for the N. P. city team. He proved a heavy cloutier for the team, and one of the most dependable fielders seen here in years. A number of his catches were of the circus variety, taking the ball in sensational catches after long sprints. He showed a rare ability to size up a drive the moment it was hit, and he started his run with the crack of the bat.

His basketball ability is on a par with his baseball skill, and Brainerd fans will have a chance to see him in action again in the games against Wright and the Whiz Bangers.

INTERLEAGUE WAR BETWEEN HOCKEY LEAGUES LOOMS

Chicago, Dec. 15.—(UP)—An inter-league war between the American and national hockey leagues loomed today with receipt here of a statement from President Frank Calder of the national league which characterizes all "clubs of the American league as outlaws."

President Calder in his statement said that the relations which existed between the national hockey league and the central hockey association had been severed. The American league was formed with the old central association as a nucleus.

The National league president charged that the Chicago Cardinals of the American league had signed illegally, players Marvin Wentworth and Teddy Graham and had not paid for their releases.

LANDIS IS RETAINED AS BASEBALL CZAR

JOINT MEETING OF TWO LEAGUES TO SET SALARY

NATIONAL LEAGUE DESIRES A SLIGHT CHANGE IN ADMIN- ISTRATION OF GAME

PLAYING RULES AND AGREEMENTS WITH MINORS ARE TO BE SOUGHT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
New York, Dec. 15.—As had been predicted frequently, Commissioner K. M. Landis will be retained as head of professional baseball for another long term.

The National League meeting in session here yesterday voted to continue the present administration of baseball and the American League reached the commissioner first with its vote of confidence after its session in Chicago.

The American Leaguers, seeking to overcome any notion that they were forced into the endorsement of the commissioner by the big club of the National League, raced through its session and sent a committee to wait on the commissioner and extend regards.

The term of the contract regarding time and salary will be decided upon at the joint meeting of the two leagues in Chicago on Thursday.

A significant move was made by the National League owners, however, that indicated a desire for a slight change in the administration of the game.

The National League owners appointed a standing committee consisting of Barney Dreyfus, William Eeck and William F. Baker to represent the league in all questions involving the major leagues and the minors.

It was explained that it was the sense of the meeting that it would be practical to revise the playing rules and the agreements with the minors.

The American League followed the same course. It may be that the commissioner will have it suggested to him to take representatives of the two leagues into conference with him.

The National League announced attendance for the season of a little less than 5,000,000, an increase of 600,000 over the previous records; that Chicago led the league in business; that St. Louis won the pennant; and that 332 dozen balls more were used this year than last year, a total of 4,718 dozens.

After announcing that no action had been taken on his suggestion that a batter who had not engaged in at least 100 games could not be recognized as the league champion, John A. Heydler, president of the league, admitted that he did not know who was the real batting champion this year.

It caused no surprise when no deals of importance were made. John McGraw said he would not trade Bill Terry to the Boston Braves for Joe Genewich and that the Braves could not get Frank Frisch for the whole Boston ball club.

It is likely, however, that some kind of a deal will be made between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia clubs. Donnie Bush, new manager of the Pirates, offered Stuffy McInnis, new manager of the Phillies, Yde and Aldridge, two pitchers, for Wrightson and Carlson.

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Kenesaw M. Landis, the first czar of organized baseball, was given a vote of confidence by directors of the American League here, who asked a committee of big league magnates to wait upon the commissioner and inform him that they are in favor of his continued reign.

The directors asked Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees, E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians, and Phil D. Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns to call upon Landis and tell him they are solidly behind him and that they wish no curtailment of his authority.

But the American League owners admitted there is "one minor point" in the agreement between the commissioner and organized baseball which they wish to discuss.

It is a safe guess that the "minor point" is the request for more activity in the advisory council, a body which was appointed to function with Landis. So far, the judge has not seen fit to seek advice from the council.

The commissioners said they would vote for retention of Landis first and argue about the minor point later. This would seem to put an end to rumors that the American League moguls are seeking the tattered scalp of the commissioner; the National League and the minors have already gone on record as being in favor of renewing the contract with Landis who was retained to purify baseball.

after the world's series scandal in 1919.

New directors for the coming year, were named at the session:

They are:
Frank Navin, of Detroit, Clark Griffith, of Washington, and Connie Mack of Philadelphia. Either Bernard of Cleveland or Ball of St. Louis will be re-elected.

Reports to the directors showed that adverse weather lowered the gate receipts. A dozen Saturday and Sunday games were rained out and only one club, Detroit, completed its full schedule. Many games were delayed and a number of these were never played off.

Much gossip concerning trades is going the rounds as usual.

However, no definite action has been taken by the magnates attending the meeting.

HIGH WINDS ADD TO DISCOMFORT OF COLD

Minimum Temperature Recorded

21 Degrees Below

NO LETUP IN SIGHT

Buses Are at Standstill, Trains Late, and Six Long Distance
Wires Out

No letup is at present in sight for the severe weather which has gripped Brainerd and the county for the past three days.

Although the thermometer registered 21 degrees below zero as the minimum last night, seven degrees warmer than on Monday night when the mercury went down to the low record of 28 degrees below zero, the cold was more noticeable due to a strong wind blowing. At 8:30 o'clock this morning the mercury rose to 19 degrees below zero, but the wind continued, making the day intensely cold.

Six long distance wires from Brainerd were reported out of order this morning, three to Minneapolis and three to Fargo, according to the Brainerd Exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. Line trouble was located from Little Falls to St. Cloud and from St. Cloud to the cities. Line trouble on the Brainerd-Fargo line was reported from Wadena and Fargo. The wires have been repaired.

Northland Transportation Co. buses are at a standstill in the city. Orders have been received from headquarters at Minneapolis not to send out buses until the weather subsides and notice is given. No buses have arrived in the city now for the past two days. The big drift at Big Lake on highway No. 27 is reported to be giving the state highway men considerable trouble in clearing away. Snowplows have been dispatched to all state highways in the district from the district office of the State Highway department here but as long as the wind continues very little can be done to clear the highways of all drifts.

Trains in and out of Brainerd are running on off schedules on account of the slippery condition of the rails and the drifts encountered.

Ford Dealers' News of New York Carries Picture of Tyrholm Motor Co. Building

The Ford Dealers' News of New York in one of its late issues carried a picture of the local Walter P. Tyrholm Motor Co. with a statement by Mr. Tyrholm concerning the Air-Lec Service which he has had installed at the Ford headquarters here. The picture accorded Brainerd quite a bit of publicity as the publication is distributed to 15,000 dealers throughout the United States and titled the city, the Gateway to Minnesota's 10,000 Lakes.

Air-Lec receives its power from compressed air and when a switch is touched a sudden thrust of air against the pistons is released, the garage doors are carried to a half way position and powerful springs carry the door the rest of the way. This method saves a mechanic's time and brings immediate service to a patron at the first sound of his horn when desiring entrance.

W. L. TARVIA HIGHWAY NO. 18

Improvement of Road From Princeton to Mille Lacs Lake
Announced

BY CHARLES M. BABCOCK

Work Will be Done as Part of 1927 Road Improvement Program

Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner recently announced the surfacing of trunk highway No. 18 from Princeton to Mille Lacs lake with tarvia as a part of their road improvement program for 1927.

While the majority of tourists and motorists will take the quickest way to Brainerd over the all paved trunk highway No. 27 from the cities to this city, many will travel over highway No. 18 to view the beauties of the Mille Lacs lake country.

Highway No. 18 already is surfaced with tarvia from Princeton to Elk River. The placing of tarvia on the highway from Princeton to Mille Lacs lake will greatly increase the popularity of the highway at that stretch, which during rainy seasons became very soggy and difficult to travel over.

Requests for the improvement of highways No. 18 and 35 were recently presented by business men's clubs of Princeton, Onamia, Atkin, Grand Rapids, Nashwauk, Hibbing and Chisholm.

Paving of these highways will be a matter for future consideration, Commissioner Babcock stated.

HIGH WINDS ADD TO DISCOMFORT OF COLD

Minimum Temperature Recorded Last Night Here Was 21 Degrees Below

NO LETUP IN SIGHT

Buses Are at Standstill, Trains Late, and Six Long Distance Wires Out

No letup is at present in sight for the severe weather which has gripped Brainerd and the county for the past three days.

Although the thermometer registered 21 degrees below zero as the minimum last night, seven degrees warmer than on Monday night when the mercury went down to the low record of 28 degrees below zero, the cold was more noticeable due to a strong wind blowing. At 8:30 o'clock this morning the mercury rose to 19 degrees below zero, but the wind continued, making the day intensely cold.

Six long distance wires from Brainerd were reported out of order this morning, three to Minneapolis and three to Fargo, according to the Brainerd Exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. Line trouble was located from Little Falls to St. Cloud and from St. Cloud to the cities. Line trouble on the Brainerd-Fargo line was reported from Wadena and Fargo. The wires have been repaired.

Northland Transportation Co. buses are at a standstill in the city. Orders have been received from headquarters at Minneapolis not to send out buses until the weather subsides and notice is given. No buses have arrived in the city now for the past two days. The big drift at Big Lake on highway No. 27 is reported to be giving the state highway men considerable trouble in clearing away. Snowplows have been dispatched to all state highways in the district from the district office of the State Highway department here but as long as the wind continues very little can be done to clear the highways of all drifts.

Trains in and out of Brainerd are running on off schedules on account of the slippery condition of the rails and the drifts encountered.

THREE WINNERS IN CONTEST

GIVES AIR-LEC SERVICE

Ford Dealers' News of New York Carries Picture of Tyrholm Motor Co. Building

The Ford Dealers' News of New York in one of its late issues carried a picture of the local Walter F. Tyrholm Motor Co. with a statement by Mr. Tyrholm concerning the Air-Lec Service which he has had installed at the Ford headquarters here. The picture accorded Brainerd quite a bit of publicity; as the publication is distributed to 15,000 dealers throughout the United States and titled the city, the Gateway to Minnesota's 10,000 Lakes.

Air-Lec receives its power from compressed air and when a switch is touched a sudden thrust of air against the pistons is released, the garage doors are carried to a half way position and powerful springs carry the door the rest of the way. This method saves a mechanic's time and brings immediate service to a patron at the first sound of his horn when desiring entrance.

LURE OF BASEBALL CALLS OLD TIMERS BACK

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 14.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker probably were serious when they announced that they were through with baseball for good.

Cobb, stepping out of the management of the Detroit Tigers, said he was tired and wanted to rest. He has money enough to do it as he is reputed to be one of the richest men in baseball.

Speaker, giving up his job with the Cleveland Indians, said he was going into other business. Speaker isn't as well fixed as Cobb financially but he doesn't have to labor.

Few fans think that Cobb and Speaker, stars for twenty years because they loved baseball, will be able to stay away from the game permanently.

Art Shaffer was one of the few players who retired from baseball in his prime and stayed retired. He was perhaps the only star player who quit the game before he had even reached his prime.

Cobb and Speaker reached the age where they would have to quit playing within a short time but there are other posts in baseball where slowed up legs are not an impediment.

It was singular—and it goes to prove the point—that just when Cobb and Speaker quit baseball Bill Carrigan came back after having been in retirement for ten years.

Last year the old lure of the game brought Fred Clarke back to the Pittsburgh Pirates that he had managed as champions.

Clarke and Carrigan quit the game to go into other business and they were so successful that they didn't have to come back to the game for a living. They were wealthy men and it was the appeal of the game that brought them back.

In these days of tremendous football and golf frenzies, it is sometimes argued that baseball is losing its hold on the public and that it is no longer the national pastime.

Perhaps the public is not supporting baseball in the same proportion to the increased interest in other sports but the game apparently has the same appeal to the men engaged in it.

Some of the younger college boys coming up haven't the old spirit to do and die for the game but the boys who are learning their baseball on the sand lots will keep the game going. And the sand lots are more fertile for the production of players than the college campus.

But it is quite certain that as a business, baseball is not in a bad way. Otherwise the club owners would not be putting so much money back into the game in new stands and expensive players.

Eddie Collins was relieved of the management of the Chicago White Sox because his salary was too large for a manager who could not play and the same reason was back of the retirement of Cobb.

The action of the Chicago and Detroit clubs in looking for less expensive managers doesn't necessarily mean that baseball is being forced to stringent economies.

No business man wants to pay his help more than is necessary and a baseball player is on the basis of a carpenter, an iron worker or a book-keeper. His pay depends upon what he is able to do.

Considering that the White Sox will have to pay another second baseman to take Collins' place and hire another manager, the club may not make a big saving in the long run. The same condition prevails in Detroit and it must be remembered too that the retirement of the two stars may mean the loss of some business.

That will be a big argument if Babe Ruth goes to the mat with the New York Yankees about a new $150,000 contract. The Babe could point out that it would be sounder business to stick $100,000 more on his contract than to lose a couple of hundred thousand in business and it can't be denied that the Babe still packs them in.

WISCONSIN BOXING
FANS SENSE CHANGES

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Following announcement from Madison of the appointment by Governor John J. Blaine of William P. Hart of Eau Claire to a five year term as a member of the Wisconsin Boxing commission, boxing fans of the state wondered what changes, if any would be made regarding the personnel of that body.

Indications are, however, that A. J. Schinner, present chairman, whose term expires within a short time, will be succeeded by Vic Manhardt and that Schinner would succeed Walter Lignier, present secretary, who has announced he will resign.

Hart by right of seniority is entitled to become chairman but because of the fact he does not live in Milwaukee, the chairmanship will go to Ralph Wettstein, commissioner, or to Vic Manhardt, if he gets the appointment.

The commission at its meeting last night did a little business which is of interest to some boxers. They suspended Dago Joe Gans of St. Paul for 90 days for his poor showing against Joe Miller here last month; reprimanded Red Burman for too much talking to a referee; indefinitely suspended Cyclone Rogers for his unsatisfactory bout at Eau Claire on December 3 and granted a number of sanctions for bouts.

TEN WESTERN

Chicago, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Six representatives from each of the ten western conference schools will meet here the later part of next month to determine future policies of the organization and to assist in further equalizing competition.

The question of rotating schedules, simultaneous home and home games, long term contracts and other schedule making points will be discussed. The matter of playing inter-sectional games is also scheduled for discussion.

Uniformity of eligibility rules and of a certain playing code will be taken up.

MYSTERY WITNESS
TESTIFIES IN THE
McDERMOTT CASE

FAMED UNDERWORLD OF CANTON HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR KILLING EDITOR

CONVERSATIONS WITH McDERMOTT READ INTO THE RECORDS

Court House, Canton, O., Dec. 15.—(UP)—The crime ring of Canton, alleged to have plotted the murder of Don R. Mellett, crusading editor, was introduced today to the jury hearing the murder charge against Pat McDermott, first of the three underworld characters to be tried for the killing.

Introducing its first "surprise" witness, the prosecution obtained from William Betzler, details of the life which the defendant lived in Canton for the five days before the murder last July 16.

Betzler, over the protests of the defense, related to the jury conversations in which he said McDermott told him he "had a job on" the same night Mellett was shot down.

The witness connected Pat with the liquor runners held responsible by the state for the murder and told that Pat had bragged that Canton police dared not arrest him because he knew the "high mucky mucks."

A few hours before the editor was ambushed McDermott told him he expected to leave town and that the next day he would have considerable money. Betzler said, closing his direct examination.

LURE OF BASEBALL CALLS OLD TIMERS BACK

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 14.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker probably were serious when they announced that they were through with baseball for good. Cobb, stepping out of the management of the Detroit Tigers, said he was tired and wanted to rest. He has money enough to do it as he is reputed to be one of the richest men in baseball.

Speaker, giving up his job with the Cleveland Indians, said he was going into other business. Speaker isn't as well fixed as Cobb financially but he doesn't have to labor.

Few fans think that Cobb and Speaker, stars for twenty years because they loved baseball, will be able to stay away from the game permanently.

Art Shaffer was one of the few players who retired from baseball in his prime and stayed retired. He was perhaps the only star player who quit the game before he had even reached his prime.

Cobb and Speaker reached the age where they would have to quit playing within a short time but there are other posts in baseball where slowed up legs are not an impediment.

It was singular—and it goes to prove the point—that just when Cobb and Speaker quit baseball Bill Carrigan came back after having been in retirement for ten years.

Last year the old lure of the game brought Fred Clarke back to the Pittsburgh Pirates that he had managed as champions.

Clarke and Carrigan quit the game to go into other business and they were so successful that they didn't have to come back to the game for a living. They were wealthy men and it was the appeal of the game that brought them back.

In these days of tremendous football and golf frenzies, it is sometimes argued that baseball is losing its hold on the public and that it is no longer the national pastime.

Perhaps the public is not supporting baseball in the same proportion to the increased interest in other sports but the game apparently has the same appeal to the men engaged in it.

Some of the younger college boys coming up haven't the old spirit to do and die for the game but the boys who are learning their baseball on the sand lots will keep the game going. And the sand lots are more fertile for the production of players than the college campus.

But it is quite certain that as a business, baseball is not in a bad way. Otherwise the club owners would not be putting so much money back into the game in new stands and expensive players.

Eddie Collins was relieved of the management of the Chicago White Sox because his salary was too large for a manager who could not play and the same reason was back of the retirement of Cobb.

The action of the Chicago and Detroit clubs in looking for less expensive managers doesn't necessarily mean that baseball is being forced to stringent economies.

No business man wants to pay his help more than is necessary and a baseball player is on the basis of a carpenter, an iron worker or a book-keeper. His pay depends upon what he is able to do.

Considering that the White Sox will have to pay another second baseman to take Collins' place and hire another manager, the club may not make a big saving in the long run. The same condition prevails in Detroit and it must be remembered too that the retirement of the two stars may mean the loss of some business.

That will be a big argument if Babe Ruth goes to the mat with the New York Yankees about a new $150,000 contract. The Babe could point out that it would be sounder business to stick $100,000 more on his contract than to lose a couple of hundred thousand in business and it can't be denied that the Babe still packs them in.

MYSTERY WITNESS
TESTIFIES IN THE
McDERMOTT CASE

FAMED UNDERWORLD OF CAN-TON HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR KILLING EDITOR

CONVERSATIONS WITH McDER-MOTT READ INTO THE RECORDS

Court House, Canton, O., Dec. 15.—(UP)—The crime ring of Canton, alleged to have plotted the murder of Don R. Mellett, crusading editor, was introduced today to the jury hearing the murder charge against Pat McDermott, first of the three underworld characters to be tried for the killing.

Introducing its first "surprise" witness, the prosecution obtained from William Betzler, details of the life which the defendant lived in Canton for the five days before the murder last July 16.

Betzler, over the protests of the defense, related to the jury conversations in which he said McDermott told him he "had a job on" the same night Mellett was shot down.

The witness connected Pat with the liquor runners held responsible by the state for the murder and told that Pat had bragged that Canton police dared not arrest him because he knew the "high mucky mucks."

A few hours before the editor was ambushed McDermott told him he expected to leave town and that the next day he would have considerable money, Betzler said, closing his direct examination.

WISCONSIN BOXING
FANS SENSE CHANGES

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 15.—(UP)—Following announcement from Madison of the appointment by Governor John J. Blaine of William P. Hart of Eau Claire to a five year term as a member of the Wisconsin Boxing commission, boxing fans of the state wondered what changes, if any would be made regarding the personnel of that body.

Indications are, however, that A. J. Schinner, present chairman, whose term expires within a short time, will be succeeded by Vic Manhardt, and that Schinner would succeed Walter Liginger, present secretary, who has announced he will resign.

Hart by right of seniority is entitled to become chairman but because of the fact he does not live in Milwaukee, the chairmanship will go to Ralph Wettstein, commissioner, or to Vic Manhardt, if he gets the appointment.

The commission at its meeting last night did a little business which is of interest to some boxers. They suspended Dago Joe Gans of St. Paul for 90 days for his poor showing against Joe Miller here last month; reprimanded Red Burman for too much talking to a referee; indefinitely suspended Cyclone Rogers for his unsatisfactory bout at Eau Claire on December 3 and granted a number of sanctions for bouts.

CLAIMANT TO VAST FORTUNE
PASSES AWAY

St. Paul, Dec. 14.—(UP)—One of the claimants of a vast fortune in England, Mrs. Charlotte Harryman, 75, died Monday without having been successful in her attempt to establish her right.

Mrs. Harryman was one of 13 St. Paul residents who sought to be pronounced heirs of the estate of a remote ancestor, but the family records are incomplete as the result of important papers having been lost in a shipwreck. The fortune amounted to $5,000,000 129 years ago and has piled up at compound interest.
